ANOTHER flight of 2,500 miles and the great Zeppelin, landing at Lakehurst, will complete the trip around the world.

This achievement will be told of in history a thousand years after "the Great War" shall have become "one of many wars."

IN HIS radio message from the Zeppelin, Karl H. Von Wiegand remarked that the Graf Zeppelin's flight "has brought Japan and California together in less than three days."

Those few words should dispose of any foolish suggestions that the United States air program should be REDUCED.

It ought to be multiplied by four.

THE Zeppelin made less than 90 miles an hour.

At the Schneider Cup race presently airplanes will excel 300 miles an hour.

They would fly from Tokyo to San Francisco in one day. Who doubts that their speed will be transferred to big bombing planes? We need air expansion, not retrenchment.

Charles Green, New York gangster, was arrested in Chicago and held for the New York authorities on a charge of being implicated in the Hotzy Totsy murder, where two men were killed in what is believed to be a gang war.

FOR MURDER

CAR PLUNGES INTO WATERS OF LAKE ERIE

Babe Drowned and Mother Believed Dying.

GUARD HUSBAND

Police Claim Crash to Be Murder-suicide Plot.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28.—(INS)—Frank E. Andrews, 45, of Cleveland, drove himself, his estranged wife, Selma and their 19-months-old son, Chester, over an 80-foot cliff into Lake Erie today just outside the city limits. Police believe the plunge was made in an attempt to kill the three occupants of the car.

Husband Seriously Hurt.

The baby was drowned in the lake, and the body was recovered a short time later by coast guardsmen. Andrews will be formally charged with murder in connection with the death of his son, police said.

The father is in St. John's hospital here with both legs broken and serious internal injuries. He was ordered removed to the criminal ward of the hospital following a hasty investigation of the crash. Mrs. Andrews is lying in St. John's hospital, attacked of a heart condition.

Mrs. Andrews told police that her husband had promised to drive her and the baby to the airport to see the air races. As he approached the cliff along the lake, Mrs. Andrews said her husband suddenly cried: "Well, here goes, and we all go together."

Mrs. Andrews said she struggled with him for control of the wheel but was unable to right the automobile in time to save the trio from the plunge over the cliff.

Divorce Suit Pending.

Two men who witnessed the tragedy tipped the auto up after it had landed at the foot of the cliff and rescued the man and woman. The baby had disappeared in the water, after being washed out of the car.

Andrews denied all charges and declared to police that the plunge was an accident. Mrs. Andrews had filed suit for divorce from her husband, it was learned.

POTTERS WILL SEEK FIGURES ON JOBLESS

Campaign Launched Here for Protective Tariff.

DISCUSS PLANS

Questionnaire to be Used in Collecting Data.

Questionnaires to determine the unemployment in the potteries in the American ceramic industry and to obtain the results on business in the past five years in localities affected by the industry will be drawn up and mailed today by the United States Pottery Association and National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, according to plans made at a conference of manufacturers, merchants and labor leaders in the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters hall yesterday afternoon.

These forms will be sent to merchants, and pottery manufacturers and also to the heads of former plants which, it is declared, have been forced to suspend operations because of the competition offered by European dinnerware producers. Questionnaires will also go to the heads of the various localities affected with the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters to ascertain the number of their members who are jobless or who are working on a part time basis because of the depression in the industry, caused by foreign competitors.

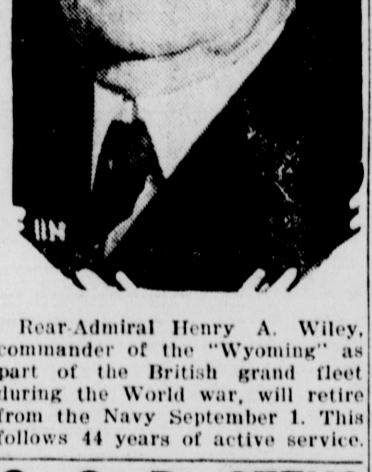

Results of the investigation will be used as an argument for a higher protective tariff in the proposed Hawley-Smoot bill which comes up for consideration in the senate very shortly according to the plan of the manufacturers and operatives. The questionnaires must be returned by the end of the present week.

The questionnaire was drafted by W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Homer Laughlin China company; Joseph M. Wells, his son, superintendent of the Nos. 6 and 7 Laughlin plants; Malcolm W. Thompson, secretary of the Hall China company and president of the United States Pottery Association; and Charles F. Goodwin, secretary-treasurer of the United States Pottery Association, assisted by Joseph Belz, president, and H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Many pottery plants have been compelled to suspend operations because it is impossible for the

EXPECT GRAF IN CLEVELAND ABOUT 5 P. M.

Air Liner Delayed by Strong Winds in Texas.

SPEED IS CUT

Ship is Headed in Direction of Chicago.

VIBART, Mo., Aug. 28.—(INS)—The mighty air liner, Graf Zeppelin passed over here at 10:23 o'clock (11:23 East Liverpool time) today. It was flying high and at a rapid rate of speed.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland are on the visiting list of the Graf Zeppelin today, according to an announcement of the route to Lakehurst, announced by Commander Eckener last as Kansas City's skyline loomed on the horizon ahead.

At the same time Dr. Eckener expressed his regret that it will not be possible to deviate from his fixed route so as to visit the many cities and towns which have requested the Zeppelin to fly over their areas.

Circles Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.—(INS)—Traveling at a fast rate of speed, the Graf Zeppelin passed over Kansas City at 9:40 a. m. (10:40 East Liverpool time) today.

After circling the city twice while a score of airplanes escorted it, the Graf pointed its nose north-east and departed at 9:50 a. m. It was expected that Dr. Hugo Eckener would fly direct to Chicago from here.

A light tail wind favored the huge air liner, which was estimated to be making better than 80 miles an hour.

Thousands of persons saw the Graf from building tops and high hills. Although the sky was hazy, the Graf dropped to an altitude of 1,000 feet while circling the city.

ON BOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Aug. 28.—(INS)—Although impeded by strong headwinds ever since leaving Los Angeles yesterday, the Graf Zeppelin on the final lap of its round-the-world journey has had no trouble in making better speed than the swiftest express train.

As this dispatch was filed the Zeppelin was nearing Kansas City, which it should reach by 9 a. m. Central Standard time.

Dr. Eckener, commander of the

LINDY THRILLS CROWDS WITH TRICK FLYING

"Flying Colonel" Shows Skill at Air Races.

ANNE LOOKS ON

Two Naval Flyers Assist in Daring Exhibition.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28.—Every so often, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the flying pioneer of the Atlantic, stages a little show that holds his "rep" intact and proves to anyone who would even think of belittling his flying prowess that he can still skillfully maneuver a plane through thrilling flip-flops.

Lindbergh's "rep" is safe today in the minds of some 25,000 spectators at the national air races. They sat on the edge of their seats yesterday while the slim colonel from the army led two "stunters" in the crack navy "high hat" team, in an aerial whoopeemaking jaunt that sent thrills chasing each other up and down every one's spine.

Of course, it is very doubtful if the colonel's wife, the little former Anne Spencer Morrow, permits very much of such goings-on, perhaps that's one reason he "let loose" yesterday when Mrs. Lindbergh reluctantly nodded her head—a sign of a not very enthusiastic consent to his aerial raving.

There was a lot of others who felt the same way about it after Lindbergh got into the air. They wished he was safe on the ground. He might get hurt.

Lindbergh plowed through the skies at a 150-mile an hour clip. Two crack flyers of the navy trailed him. Suddenly he dived. The spectators gasped. The flying ace dived again, turned, soared over the field.

Then the three clever devils of the air flew in close formation. It seemed as though the propellers were unnecessary discussion.

Mr. Ford, a sincere teetotaler, probably said that hastily. He is as good now as ever. He established his reputation and that of his car long before prohibition came.

What Henry Ford could do without the aid of prohibition at 50, he could do now at 65. He wants to help prohibition, that's all.

deserve to be locked up, not because they walk around naked, not because they refuse marriage ceremonies, but because they oppose public schools and sometimes set fire to them.

SAMUEL SHERMAN, aged 51, and Herman Schwartz, aged 42, are dead, poisoned by acid fumes in their bootleg whisky factory.

A hole under ground, carefully hidden, poorly ventilated, was found by the police, who discovered the two bodies, to contain 20 barrels of boiling mash.

Acid, of which fumes killed the two bootleggers, was put into each barrel to hasten the distilling process. That is the poison swallowed by drinkers of bootleg whisky.

WHEN efficient gangsters don't want witnesses to testify, they don't testify.

Somebody killed three men in New York's "Hotzy Totsy" speak easy. Two waiters and another man saw the gunman that did the killing.

Commissioner Whalen says the three that saw will see nothing more. They have been killed to "shut their mouths."

BILLY M'GLORY, dive manager of old New York days, was right. He said, "It is often safe not to see things that you might see."

HENRY FORD's interesting statement that he would stop manufacturing automobiles "if booze came back again" causes unnecessary discussion.

Four Jews Killed In Recent Riots

Moslems Attack Jewish Quarter of Haifa—British Marines Rout Arabs After Skirmish.

By HARRY R. FLORY.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—A fresh outbreak of fighting at Haifa, 65 miles northwest of Jerusalem, in which four Jews were said to have been killed, was reported this afternoon.

A Central News dispatch from Jerusalem said that Arabs made an attack upon Haifa's Jewish quarter of Haifa, yesterday, when four Jews were killed and four were wounded. British Marines went to the aid of the Jews and were repulsed.

After a lull the fighting was renewed today when Arabs again invaded Haifa and began pillaging and burning buildings. British marines engaged the Moslems.

Tension in Jerusalem has been heightened by increased reports of trouble at Damascus and fresh disorders in Transjordan. The British force of soldiers and marines on patrol duty in the Holy Land is now estimated at from 5,000 to 6,000.

The situation in Jerusalem has quieted down, but troops continue to pour into the city. There is a partial reopening of shops and banks, late advices said.

The Syro-Palestine committee at Cairo, Egypt, has telegraphed to Indian Mohammedan leaders that "hundreds of Moslems have been killed by Jews and police while defending the wailing wall in Jerusalem," said a Cairo dispatch published in the evening papers. The committee called upon the Indian Moslems "to help the cause."

BEIRUT, Syria, Aug. 28.—(INS).—Reports that the Arab uprising in Palestine was spreading to Syria spread today as French troops continued forcible prevention of Moslems from entering this country from Palestine.

HOLD DRIVER FOR MANSLAUGHTER

MARTINS FERRY, O., Aug. 28.—(INS)—Despite the fact that a coroner's jury had freed Frank Ragusa, of Steubenville, in connection with the death of Weyburn Pultz, a local painter, whom Ragusa is said to have run down and killed while fleeing a speed cop, authorities today filed a manslaughter charge against the Steubenville man.

Pultz was killed while painting street warning signs.

G. A. R. Veteran Enroute to Birthplace In Lisbon Stops in East Liverpool

N. F. Vaughn, 92, Learned Printer's Trade in County.

Wearing a Grand Army button and lacking but eight years of being 100 years old, N. F. Vaughn, Chicago, once a naval man under Admiral David G. Porter, and former printer and editor, stepped off a Greyhound bus here yesterday afternoon to stretch his legs while on his way to Lisbon, where he was born and which place he had not visited for 59 years.

Weighing about 150 pounds and affecting a mustache and beard of the Civil War period and his countenance a ruddy pink from the effects of apparent good health, he felt at once into conversation with Lee C. Cooper, Little building insurance man.

So interested did the veteran become in his reminiscences of the past that the driver of the bus had to honk his horn a number of times in an attempt to have his passengers rejoin the others so that the journey might be continued. In the end he had to step out and ask him to re-enter the vehicle. This the traveler did rather protestingly.

Passengers and spectators upon the streets alike were wholesomely

SHERIFF NABS HARRY MILLER

Erie Street Man Charged With Transporting Liquor.

Harry Miller, 24, Erie street and Maryland avenue, East End, was arrested at 10:30 o'clock today by Sheriff William J. Barlow on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Miller was taken into custody after Sheriff Barlow searched his automobile and found five-gallon cans of liquor. He was to be arraigned late this afternoon before Judge Lodge Riddle at Lisbon.

The arrest of Miller followed an exciting chase in which Sheriff Barlow engaged with an automobile to have contained a large quantity of liquor. The race began in East End and continued over the state line into Pennsylvania. The sheriff was forced to stop when a large truck pulled from the side of the road between him and the one hauling the liquor.

LOCALS DEFEAT RANGER GIRLS

Inter-city League Club
Cops 8 to 2
Tilt.

After spotting the opposition to a pair of runs in the first two frames, the Wellsville Inter-city League club finished strong to capture an 8 to 2 decision over the Chicago Ranger Girls here last night before a large crowd.

Scoring one run in the second, the locals were on the short end of a 2 to 1 count going into the fourth when they knotted the tally. They chased in four runs in the fifth and two in the sixth to clinch the contest.

The visitors used a male battery and shortstop while the rest were women. Howell, Salmor and Malonis shared mound duties for the locals.

A Great Cathedral Saved

From London comes announcement that the work of strengthening and renovating St. Paul's cathedral which has been in progress for seven years is nearing an end. The reinstallation of the great electric organ, which will take possibly four months, has been begun, and when that work is accomplished, the principal task remaining to be done will be the refacing and recarving of the strengthened columns supporting the great dome, which is easily one of the most beautiful extant. It is planned to execute this work soon, at which time the temporary barriers which have shut off almost half the church from the public will be removed.

The building of the Cathedral of St. Paul which is the third erected on the site, was begun by Sir Christopher Wren, its architect, in 1675. It was opened for service in 1697 and completed in 1710. It was the view of Sir Christopher that oak and stone combined to make stronger supports for the dome than stone alone, and he followed this construction. Whether he was at fault in this view, or the constant heavy traffic about the edifice—it is surrounded on all sides by streets—and excavations for subways and new buildings were responsible has not been definitely determined. No matter what the cause, the columns supporting the dome began to show evidences of weakening, and the authorities of the city condemned the structure in 1925 as unsafe, basing on that part of the nave under the dome, the transepts and the choir and thus barring the public from them. At the time this action was taken the work of strengthening the columns was in progress. Borings were made through their interiors into which concrete was forced and they were refaced with stone from the floor of the nave to the base of the dome. They are now held to be as strong as they were originally and it is planned to throw open the edifice to the public soon, when a thanksgiving service will be held over the preservation of one of the notable structures of London, which is, as well, one of the notable ecclesiastical edifices of the world.

Doubting Thomases

Two events of the past ten days reveal some things about the show business that, in addition to being of interest to the public, are very good publicity.

One is the wager of a western gentleman that a Negro in a side show appearing in his town did not really consume razor blades and broken light bulbs, as advertised. An X-ray investigation, conducted after the night performance of the stout-stomached performer, revealed signs of metal there and a doubting Thomas was freed from the burden of a $2000 wager.

The second is that Clyde Beatty, spectacular young animal trainer, of Chillicothe, was seriously injured during a performance and that it was only with the greatest difficulty that attendants were able to save him from death. Everyone who saw his performance was thrilled by the apparent chances which he took with his huge cage of jungle cats snarling at him, but in each mind there was a doubt that the dangers were as real as they appeared to be. It did not seem possible that any human would subject himself to such dangers in order to make a living.

That is where the doubting Thomases were mistaken. The dangers were real. The whip, the pistol, the shield, the catlike movements were all necessary for protection. They failed once and one of the foremost animal trainers in the United States was nearly killed. It is hard to believe, but like the gentleman in the west who didn't understand how a human could eat razor blades all that was lacking was imagination. The doubters have their day and the show people have theirs. So frequently the doubters lose even in these days of disillusionment.

While the Graf Zeppelin was making air history over Siberia Sunday, the tri-motored airplane, Santiago, of the New York-Rio de Janeiro-Buenos Aires line, was adding a chapter to the history of air achievements in South America.

Piloted by Browne and Hamilton, of the American International Airways corporation, the Santiago flew over the Andes from Mendoza, Argentina, to Santiago, Chile, carrying thirteen passengers; a record in that nothing like so many passengers had ever before been carried over the great South American mountain range in an airship.

The Santiago made the trip in two hours and eighteen minutes, and had to attain an altitude of 21,325 feet to clear the snow-topped peaks, which surpass any peak in the United States, and endure a temperature of fifteen degrees below zero. It is to be questioned if the flight of a vessel of the Santiago's size, which has to provide its own buoyancy as it goes along, was not more hazardous than that of the lighter-than-air Zeppelin, but it was not given us to become acquainted with the Santiago as we are with the Graf Zeppelin as a result of two visits to our shores, and its feat was not mentioned in most papers, and not conspicuously in any, while the progress of the German dirigible was exploited in almost all United States dailies by streamers across their front pages.

The Chicago police hold that the second bombing of the home of a sanitary trustee up there is simply another gentle hint for him to move out of the ward in which he has been acting as one of Mayor Bill Hale Thompson's leaders. Are we to understand that we have in this case evidence of more dirty work by the "base hirelings" of King George?

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28.—Whether or not the U. S. S. Olympia, flagship of Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila bay, will be dismantled and her plate and armament junked by the navy department or will be preserved as a national memorial to the decisive naval victory of the Spanish-American war, is to be decided by congress. The Olympia was on the navy schedule this summer for scrapping as an obsolete vessel but, at the request of congressmen, Secretary of Navy Adams has consented to postpone destruction of the vessel until congress re-convenes after the recess and decides what her fate shall be.

The Olympia's keel was laid down at the Union Iron Works, San Francisco, in 1890, and when she was commissioned on February 1, 1901, she was as up-to-date and tidy an armored cruiser as there was anywhere in the world. There were no basket masts in those days, nor was armament as heavy, but with her ten five-inch guns and her 21 knot speed she was a business-like craft. She was christened Olympia in honor of the capital of the state of Washington which had just been admitted to the union. She steamed out of Mare Island navy yard on her first trip with a complement of 34 officers and 346 men, commanded by Captain Charles V. Gridley.

She was at Hong Kong, having become flagship of Admiral Dewey, when, on April 27, 1898, the American Asiatic fleet steamed out of that port in three columns, the Olympia leading. From that moment, the hoodoo which had been seriously affecting the morale of some of the men, departed. The story of the battle of Manila bay is in every school history.

The battle itself was soon over. The Olympia, leading the fleet, had stolen past Corregidor Island in the darkness and at dawn bore down on the Spanish fleet. At Admiral Dewey's famous command: "You may fire when ready, Gridley," the Olympia's guns spoke. The whole fleet sailed past the Spanish fleet, then turned and sailed past again, each time pouring salvoes into the Spanish ships. Two of the Spanish men of war tried to break away and come to closer quarters but were sunk before they could come very far. Twelve Spanish ships of war were sunk or burned and the land batteries were silenced.

After the war, the Olympia was put out of commission at the Boston navy yard. That was November 8, 1898, but in January of 1902 she was recommissioned under command of Captain H. W. Lyon and became flagship again, this time of the North Atlantic squadron. On this tour of duty she protected American lives and interests in Panama in 1904, in Mediterranean waters on account of disturbances in Turkey and at Smyrna, and, in 1905, in Dominican waters.

Once again, on April 3, 1906, the Olympia was refitted at the Norfolk navy yard, but on May 15, 1907, was laid out again to serve as a school ship for Annapolis midshipmen. She was laid up soon afterwards at Charleston navy yard where she remained until 1916.

But when the World War broke out, the Olympia reappeared and once more became a flagship, this time of the U. S. patrol force, Rear Admiral H. B. Wilson, commanding. She patrolled the Nova Scotia waters and acted as convoy for merchantmen in the Atlantic lanes. In May she was sent to Scapa Flow, off Scotland, and there took aboard Lieut. Gen. Poole of the British army with a detachment of troops, conveying them to Murmansk in Russia. A landing force from the Olympia, under Captain Buer, took part in wresting Archangel from the Bolsheviks, then, in the midst of the terrorism which followed the Russian revolution. Her men saw hard fighting in the days which followed; much harder, in fact, than a previous generation had seen at Manila bay.

In December, 1918, she became flagship of the United States fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean and became acquainted with ports of the Adriatic and the Black Sea. She aided Italian authorities in a threatened clash between Italian and Serbian troops and then turned to relief work, assisting refugees who straggled to the coast. On November 7, 1920, the Olympia assisted in delivering the former Austrian battleships, Radetzky and Zeinoff, which had been held in trust by the United States since the Armistice, to the Italian authorities.

Returning home in 1921, the old ship assisted in the bombing exercises in which the captured German ships Frankfurt and Osterfriesland were employed as targets. Then came her last assignment. She left Philadelphia navy yard October 3, 1921, arriving at Plymouth, England, October 16. There she took aboard the body of the Unknown Soldier returning to the Washington navy yard on November 9, 1921.

In 1922 the Olympia was put out of commission at Philadelphia where she has since lain. During the Sesqui-centennial exposition at that city, visitors were admitted to her decks as a part of the navy's exhibit.

Ritzy Rosalie

Rosalie's new bet is a regular "chip off the old block," but you needn't have a black head to wear it. It is very comfortable and pliable, and is made entirely of small wooden splinters formed by very narrow wooden strands in basket weave effect. A necklace goes with the bet, and both come in white as well as pastels. Down below, around Rosalie's feet, is a rug made like a bag, which while intended as a warmer rug seems to fit very nicely into the requirements of a rumble seat. It is thick and soft, and serves as a cushion bump-proof, and it opens conveniently far down and closes with a zipper fastening. Just the thing for a cool rumble-seat ride in a fast car.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—One rarely hears the term "old maid" in New York. It has become a slightly opprobrious epithet. Ladies who passed the middle thirties without marriage were once upon a time voluntarily or involuntarily relegated to spinsterhood. But not any more.

Manhattan now looks upon its unmarried women as "bachelor girls." And they are not out of step with their sisters in flapperdom. The bachelor girl is no longer withered by years, thanks to beauty experts, and she is up to the minute in manner and dress.

Most bachelor girls are married graduates and have not carried off because they are more interested in a career. This does not mean they are haters of men. Indeed, the career life most dream about but few attain. They have their beaux, mostly understanding fellows who delight to be in their company but realize sentimental attachments impossible. They may only hope. And serve!

Bachelor girls do not "bach" alone. As a rule they team up with other girls determined on commercial or professional careers. They are rare good fellows and hospitable. One of the most interesting penny ante poker game is held weekly in a bachelor girl's apartment. It is "For Men Only." All are rejected suitors.

She goes to the theater or concert on that night, arrives home in time to serve sandwiches and is off to bed, leaving her guests to play until early morning. While independent, the bachelor girl does not boast of her independence. She has like her bachelor brother, become a "good fellow."

Every block in Manhattan at some time or other during the day untold odd bits of drama. Early this morning, well away from the city, in East 53d street a gentleman in red plush slippers and a new coat followed a Chinese girl in a red robe through the dressing gown, emerged through the grill door of a private home carrying a huge bowl of milk and better as a finishing touch to my dinner than a dish of home-made ice cream.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

More and more we realize that food has a most important place in determining the state of health. In times past, food has been something merely to appease the appetite. Anything to fill the daily demands of the stomach seemed all that was necessary.

The real need of food is to supply energy, to build a healthy framework, to strengthen muscles and blood. There cannot be a healthy brain without an unflinching supply of good food. One of the most interesting facts brought to light in recent years is that low intelligence is often the result of inadequate or poor food.

Dr. John Munroe, of Long Island university, has come to the conclusion that intelligence is not an inherited possession. Several years ago Dr. Munroe made some interesting intelligence tests on 700 public school children. The homes of these children were graded according to certain food and cooking standards. Other conditions of environment were also considered. The tests covered the lives of the children through school and college or business life.

It was found that the students who lost points in these tests from year to year, were those who came from homes where the food conditions were poor, or below the average.

In one experiment, two groups of ten children were taken from families of fairly high intelligence. Besides the regular meals, milk and eggs were fed twice a day to one group of ten. At the end of the experiment, with the exception of one child, it was found that all these children had an increase in intelligence superior to that of the group which had not been given the eggs. The latter were on a normal home diet.

Poor food is false economy. Your child cannot make good grades at school if he is improperly nourished. Your little daughter may be fretful and perverse. Her brother perhaps has a low mark in his studies and deportment. Look well into it, for the fault may not be theirs. It may be partly due to some lack in the diet.

It is not necessary to have the most expensive food, but care must be taken to have the proper kind. The growing child should be given plenty of milk and eggs, fresh fruit, vegetables, meat in moderation, and, of course, simple desserts. It is well to have at least one warm luncheon dish and a variety. Serve a soup, hot chocolate or some scalded dish. There are endless numbers of tempting dishes that may be very good. It takes lots of energy for proper growth and to allow for playing and studying.

All children like ice cream. In the hot summer days it is better for a child to eat ice cream and tempting ices, such as sherbets made from fruit juices, than the heavier pies and rich pastries. They should, as a matter of fact, be served ices are nourishing, and are directed and sure to tempt the appetite. Often they serve as an incentive for eating the plainer dishes of the meal.

These are the days of the electric ice cream freezers, which are so easy to manipulate. And how much better the home-made ice cream is than any you can buy! As I write this it is a scorching hot day. I can think of nothing I should like

Other Editors Say

The Primary and the Senate.

A man who has served with distinction in the senate for the past thirty-six years should be a competent judge of the caliber of the senior branch of the national legislature during the past three decades and a half.

The other day a representative of the New York Times asked Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, if the ability and statesmanship of the senate today is equal to that of five years ago, "I must say," was his reply, "I do not think so."

When Senator Warren first went to Washington, the senate contained such men as William M. Everts of New York; John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky; John T. Morgan, of Alabama; John J. Ingalls, of Kansas; Leonard Sturges, of California; Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island; George F. Edmunds, of Vermont; John W. Daniel, of Virginia; George G. Vest, of Missouri; George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts; John Sherman, of Ohio; Arthur Pue Gorman, of Maryland, and William B. Allison, of Iowa.

The decline of the senate from the standard set by a preponderance of men of this type is attributed by Senator Warren largely to the primary system of nominating candidates. As he puts it:

"The old way which the fathers worked out when they wrote the constitution is the best way. Also that is the view of the best thinkers today. The office should seek the man and not the man the office. Let the voters select their representatives, and the representatives elect the senator."

"The senate is not the only elective body in this country that has suffered in quality from the introduction of the primary system. Whatever office the primary has touched it has debased State legislatures, city councils and the judiciary, wherever the primary has reached them, are victims of a system which permits any Tom, Dick or Harry to seek election, which drags out the electoral process to a length that discourages many potential voters from taking part in the affairs of government and which drags candidates through seas of mud to which few self-respecting men care to expose themselves. The price we pay for experiments with a device that has no place in the American political system is the kind of service we are getting from the type of public servants the direct primaries give us."—Detroit Free Press.

Charles Hanson Towne returns from perilous "oil" Albin with the yarn of a coster lady lurching into a pub in Houndsditch. "I'll have two pingers of gin," she said, a little unsteadily. "One for myself and one for my lily from" resting in the gutter."

And Gilbert White, the portrait painter, relays one from Paris about the American actress after renting a house in Paris learning it had no bath. "But it is all right," she consoled herself to friends, "I'll only be here two months."

From a Denver paper: "O. O. McIntyre speaks of watching a glorious Arizona sunset from the observation platform of a west bound train, which is the nearest trick of the week."

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl 14 years old. I have been going with a young fellow who is five years older than myself.

Before Christmas I was going to the show every other night with him. But now I have been going alone. But my grandmother follows me every time I go out. She does not like him.

He tells me that he loves me very much, and wants to marry me when I am 16 or older. I promised him I would. But the only thing I am worried about is being followed.

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: Your grandmother only has your welfare at heart and it is not right for you to put her in the position of having to follow you to know what you are doing. Sneaking off to meet a young man that is not permitted to visit your home is cheap and unworthy of a girl, regardless of her age. And for a girl of your age, you should not even be thinking of "beaus," let alone marriage.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl almost 15 and would like to know if it is all right to go to the movies with a boy in school, when my mother doesn't know him, but knows I am going.

2. Is it all right to ask a boy you have known for a long time to take you home from a party when your escort is unable to come for you, or would you wait until he asks you?

PUZZLED: If your mother consents to your keeping engagements with young men that she does not know, that is her prerogative. However most mothers insist upon a young girl's boy friends calling at the house and making their acquaintance.

Your escort should make some arrangement for your return from a party when it is impossible for him to accompany you. He might ask one of his good friends to take you or a couple with whom you are both well acquainted to accompany you. If he fails to do this your parents or brother should call for you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I meet a boy every day going to school. He smiles to me and I smile back. But he doesn't talk to me. Please advise how to get acquainted.

E. C. I am sorry but I am afraid there is no way for you to make this man's acquaintance unless you happen to know mutual friends and he asks them to introduce him to you. He is showing his own good breeding and respect for you in not talking until he has found a way of meeting you properly.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two girls, 15 years of age. We have quite a few boy friends and have been asked to have dates, but our parents will not let us go. Should we go without their consent or wait till we are older? They say we are too young. Do you think our parents are too strict in not letting us go out or not?

WONDERING GIRLS.

WONDERING GIRLS: No, I don't think your parents are too strict. And when you are older you will appreciate their care of you and thank them. Under no circumstances do what they have forbidden you, for you will only come to regret. Let your parents know that they can trust you and you'll find you will be much happier.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a high school girl 18 years old. A certain boy seven years my senior wants me to give up all my wild times and go with him only. He says he loves me. Should I give up all my good times and settle down with one is the question. I want you to advise me.

HONEY GIRL.

HONEY GIRL: If the young man has proposed marriage to you then it would be proper to give up your men friends. Otherwise, don't tie yourself down to one friend to the exclusion of all others. This is most unwise. If you are in doubt as to your feelings toward this young man don't under any circumstances consent to such a selfish request, for this is what it really amounts to. However, as I said before, if he has declared his love and has proved it by a proposal of marriage, and you feel that you really love him, then it will be proper to give up your other friends. But not before.

MUCH COMEDY IN "HOTTENTOT"

That comedy, whether it be on the stage, silent screen or talking motion picture should be pure and simple fun without any moral or lesson whatsoever, is the opinion of Roy Del Ruth, who directed Warner Bros. latest all-talking Vitaphone adaptation of the famous stage comedy, "The Hottentot," now showing at the American Theater.

"Comedy exists for no other reason than to amuse," says Del Ruth, "and if the funnybones of the audience are tickled by the entertainment it has served its purpose."

"If there is the slightest intervention of irrelevant thought the idea is blurred and the comedy wanes. This is particularly so in the case of the obtrusion of a moral in such a story. The audience is taxed with an idea that may have far-reaching implications. It places demands that brings them to sober judgment and the comedy is entirely lost."

Roy Del Ruth cites "The Hottentot" as a comedy that is comedy from start to finish. It never wanders from its main theme, nor forgets that its sole mission is to amuse. The all-star cast includes Edward Everett Horton, Patsy Ruth Miller, Edmund Breese, Edward Earle, Stanley Taylor, Otto Hoffman and many others. Harvey Thew did the adaptation of the Mapes-Collier stage hit.

Electric Cookery Simplifies the Preparation of Meals

"MAN MAY work from Sun to Sun, but a woman's work is never done," is the way the old English saying describes it.

The task which consumes many of the home-maker's precious hours is the preparation of meals. The Electric Range shortens these hours—and frees her from the kitchen. Kitchens are cleaner, cooler, comfortable—altogether modern.

Foods are much more delicious when cooked electrically. Because of the automatic feature of an Electric Range, entire meals may be placed in the oven and forgotten until serving time. Healthy families and tastier dishes result from these improved cooking conditions.

We will gladly send an Electric Cookery specialist to your home to give you additional information.

"IT" GIRL OLD CIRCUS TROOPER

There is a race of Americans who are more superstitious than the Indians of old. They are the people who work in circuses.

It is an old circus superstition that if things go badly on the day or night when a newcomer joins the show he or she is responsible. In the old days such "Jonahs" were immediately run off the lot and not allowed to come back.

Clara Bow learned about this superstition when she began work at the Paramount studios in Hollywood with the 200 performers of Al W. Copeland's circus, the sawdust ring outfit which was used in the filming of the various sequences of "Dangerous Curves," the "It" girl's newest all-talking picture, which will close at the Ceramic theater today.

STAGE STAR IN STATE PICTURE

Peggy Wood, New York stage star, discovered a new sport during the filming of "Wonder of Women," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new Clarence Brown production now showing at the State theater, with dialogue and sound.

She found that in the old books, bought up at auctions for set decoration by the studio property department, many old editions could be found, and she passed her spare time book hunting in the prop shop. The new picture is a filmization of Hermann Sudermann's famous novel, "The Wife of Stephen Tromholt," with Lewis Stone, Miss Wood, Leila Hyams, Sarah Padden, Harry Myers, George Fawcett, and others of note in the cast. Prominent parts are taken by four talented child players, Ulric Haupt, Jr., Dietrich Haupt, Carmencia Johnson and Anita Louise Fremault.

The story is a vivid and at times tragic romance, with Miss Wood playing the wife of a German musical composer, whose interest alternates between his home and love of his wife and the revels and flirtations of the gay Bohemian set in Berlin. Stone plays the composer.

Making phonographs and records is one of London's most thriving industries this year.

Attempts were recently made in England to relay over the radio the song of the nightingale from the upper waters of the Thames.

Stomach, Liver And Gall Troubles Soon Vanish

Five Years Systemic Disorders Conquered by Owa-Ton-Na.

Mrs. T. M. Nash, Georgetown Rd., Beaver, Pennsylvania, says: "For the past five years, I have been in a run down condition. It just seems as though everything had gone wrong, stomach, liver and kidney disorders. I was told I had gall bladder trouble yet nothing that I did seemed to give me any relief. Food fermented and caused gas. Why, at times I had no appetite at all. Headaches and backaches made life miserable. Sometimes I just felt as though I couldn't go on."

"The first bottle of Owa-Ton-Na showed me I had found the right remedy. My bowels started to function normally, my stomach acted better, food digested properly and my appetite came back. Now I can eat anything I want without distress and food certainly tastes good. My back doesn't cause me any more trouble, my kidneys act normally, I can now go to bed and sleep all night without getting up to relieve bladder irritation. Words can hardly express the thanks I feel for Owa-Ton-Na. I wish I could personally tell every sufferer about the benefit I received from this fine old Indian Remedy."

Mrs. Nash is sincere in her endorsement of this fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na. It has helped ed thousands in kidney, liver and stomach disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run down condition of health. Surely it can help you, too, if you are suffering. Call today at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 E. 6th Street, East Liverpool, Ohio and obtain a bottle for yourself. Owa-Ton-Na is also obtainable at Carnahan's East End and Newell, W. Va. Stores.—Adv.

HONOR AGED ROAD CONSUL

Monument for John Hopley Dedicated At Bucyrus.

A Lincoln highway marker, built of bowlders taken to the site by the members of the Masonic and Elks lodges was dedicated at Bucyrus recently to the memory of John E. Hopley of Bucyrus, first state consul of the Lincoln Highway association.

The dedication ceremonies, on the 79th anniversary of Mr. Hopley's birth, was in charge of Brig. Gen. Edward Vollrath of Bucyrus. The principal speakers were Edward G. Slough of Mansfield and Wm. C. Beer of Bucyrus.

The marker is fifteen feet long and eleven feet high. Among the stones received was a 75-pound rock taken from the wall of Southampton, England, where Mr. Hopley was United States consul under President William McKinley. These walls were built in the fourteenth century.

Coal resources of the world have recently been estimated to be sufficient for at least another 4,000 years.

Planes From Cleveland to Fly Over Grounds Tomorrow.

OHIO STATE FAIR GROUNDS, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—(INS.)—Visitors to this conglomerate $100,000,000 "show" will turn air-minded tomorrow when a fleet of navy airplanes will swoop down upon the race track here.

The planes, a contingent from the national air races at Cleveland, will be in command of David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, assistant secretary of the navy and Ohio's former flying colonel.

Meanwhile, the crowds have not given up the hope of seeing the Graf Zeppelin, the mightiest ship of the skies, nose its way over this 115-acre plot of exhibitions this afternoon.

They have carried vaccines to stricken communities, carried scores to perform operations, scattered hundreds of millions of tree seeds over denuded areas.

They are used for gold prospecting, for spying out forest fires, for honeymoon trips, for bootlegging and for smuggling in contraband immigrants.

Service dispatches from the west, the route of the Graf has remained undetermined and officials are hoping that Dr. Hugo Eckener will give the crowds a glimpse of his round the world craft.

Attendance at the Buckeye State's "Mardi Gras" yesterday reached the peak of more than 66,000 persons.

The emergency hospital, which was set up to care for any possible sickness or accident among the milling masses, is doing a rushing business. More than 160 people were treated there yesterday.

A few serious, but not fatal, accidents occurred. Most of the people treated, however, seemed to be suffering from an over-dose of peanuts, popcorn and candy.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper, in addressing the sheep exhibitors yesterday, told them that a new $125,000 barn would be constructed for the herders. The exhibit is the largest sheep show in the world.

Expect Graf

Graf, estimates an eight hour run from there to Chicago, which should bring the Graf over the lake city about 5 p. m. Central Standard time.

The Zeppelin had smooth sailing all last night, the curtain of darkness apparently having ironed the bumps out of the air. But Zeppelin travel over the United States still lacks some of the conveniences of home. The male passengers on this trip are becoming adepts in the final art of bathing, shaving and washing in a single tumbler full of water.

"We shall all look like real explorers by the time we reach Lakehurst," Joachim B. Rickard, of Boston, remarked this morning while awaiting his turn at the film art.

Headwinds which have faced the Graf ever since the route to Lakehurst, New Jersey, took the craft over Texas territory, and cut the dirigible's speed down to forty-five miles an hour.

All five motors of the huge dirigible churned at full clip to fight the obstinate headwinds. The Zeppelin maintained an average altitude of 4,800 feet, although on more than one occasion the Graf has been driven close to mother earth by the vagaries of opposing winds.

The flight across Texas was the roughest experience of the entire trip. Turbulent conditions continued all day yesterday and far into the night, even a change of course to the northeast failing to take the Zeppelin out of the range of elemental disturbances.

AKRON, O., Aug. 28.—(INS.)—After paying its respects to the city of Akron, the navy dirigible Los Angeles skimmed on past here at 12:45 p. m., this afternoon pointing its nose toward Cleveland.

The ship was enroute there from its hankar at Lakehurst, N. J., to participate in the 1929 national air races.

smaller factory owners to compete in the domestic market with foreign made products, which are entering United States under a light tariff, manufacturers and operators as well reported at yesterday's conference.

W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Homer Laughlin China company, submitted an estimate yesterday afternoon that 11 of the 20 potteries in East Liverpool alone were idle.

This makes 55 per cent of the former factories here which have ceased operations because of the high competition on the market made by the imported china ware.

According to unofficial reports submitted yesterday by pottery managers approximately 40 per cent of pottery workers in this city and outlying districts, including Sebring, Salineville, Steubenville and Newell are idle at the present time.

of the two navy planes were funning today's ship, along. They climbed to about 4,000 feet. Then they dived straight for the field. It seemed as though they would crash into the grandstand.

Finally, what seemed like split inches from the field, the colonel's plane followed by the navy flyers, zoomed up roared through a loop and then half rolled.

Lindy may have been having a good time up there lurching at the skies, but he didn't take into consideration the spectators with bad nerves.

Suddenly the motor of his plane spluttered. The plane slipped sideways, wobbling in a horrified fashion. Then he fish-tailed his craft, straightened out and glided beautifully to earth.

What a relief! Spectators and reporters sunk down into their seats and took a deep breath. Lindy was down on the ground safe again.

Aircraft Marketing Keeps Pace With Production Schedules.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28.—(INS.)—A national aircraft marketing program to keep abreast with increasing production schedules has become a necessity.

This was evident today when the distributor-dealer section of the aeronautical chamber of commerce meeting here in conjunction with the 1929 national air races discussed the development of a nationwide marketing organization following the disclosure here that the aircraft industry has surpassed all previous records in the production of airplanes, engines and accessories.

A detailed analysis of licensed and identified aircraft made public today by the aeronautical chamber of commerce revealed that New York has 753 licensed planes, California 519, and Illinois 309. These states lead a list of 12 having more than 100 planes each.

The aeronautical chamber of commerce shows that there are 7,117 planes of all types operating under license or identification number of the department of commerce, 2,885 identified, and 4,232 licensed.

SHUTTLE PLANE LEAVES OMAHA

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 28.—(INS.)—After obtaining 200 gallons of gasoline, oil and provisions, the plane "Shuttle," piloted by Ira Baker, roared into the east toward Cleveland today.

The plane expects to shuttle between Oakland and New York until the motor is shattered. Pilot Baker, according to his schedule, was a few hours behind time. The motor appeared to be functioning perfectly.

Police are endeavoring to determine whether Hackworth's death was suicide or an accidental shooting. Riley is expected to be released from custody sometime today.

Hackworth, according to relatives, was depressed and worried and unaccountable for his actions. When the boy's mother saw Hackworth starting across a field with a gun, she told her son to follow him.

Riley set out, but lost track of his uncle when he reached the underbrush. Next, according to his story, he heard a gun report, and saw his uncle stagger from the clump and drop dead.

KIRK RECEIVES PLANS FOR NEW RAILROAD CROSSOVER AT SALEM

State Submits List of Railroad Crossings On State Roads in County for Final Check.

LISBON, Aug. 28.—The state highway department has forwarded to County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk first plans for the overhead bridge to span the Pennsylvania railroad tracks on the Salem-Lisbon road. The bridge is being designed wholly by the highway department.

Plans show a clearance of 22 feet above the railroad, and a six per cent grade to north and south ends of the structure. By forwarding these first plans to Surveyor Kirk, it is indicated that the highway department proposes to go ahead with the structure as early as possible.

In addition to forwarding the bridge plans to Columbiana county, the state highway department has also filed with Mr. Kirk a complete record of all railroad crossings in the county for a final check. This list discloses that the Cleveland-East Liverpool road on state route 14 heads the list with nine railroad crossings. The Lisbon-East Palestine road takes second place with seven crossings, while the Wellsville-Salineville road shows four crossings, including those within the corporate limits of Salineville.

There are three crossings on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road and also the Lisbon-Youngstown road and the remainder of the state roads in the county have one or two crossings each. There is a total of 37 railroad crossings in the county, but this takes into consideration only the state roads.

Cost of the new bridge on the Salem-Lisbon road just south of Salem will be divided between the county, city of Salem, the Pennsylvania and the Youngstown & Ohio River railroads.

RADIO FANS LIKE POLITICAL TALKS

CHICAGO—In a survey conducted by a radio station here to discover the program preferences of its listeners, it was revealed that more constructive talks, more politics and less music is wanted. Less jazz and more sacred songs were also requested in a surprising number of cases. Love songs, imitations of cows, chickens and dogs were given small appreciation.

Lawrence Kindsvatter, superintendent of construction on the Rogers-Negley intercounty highway, has announced that the last concrete on this project would be poured within 10 days, and that the highway would be open to traffic 21 days thereafter. This project was awarded to the Allison-Harris Construction Co., of East Liverpool. With the completion of this road, and the opening of the new Lisbon-Elkhart road probably next week, a new road between the Lincoln highway at Lisbon and

East Palestine will be opened. Traffic from East Palestine will be to Negley, thence west to tap the East Liverpool-Youngstown road at Rogers. At the latter point the route will be southward and tap the Lisbon-Elkhart road at the intersection of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road. Congested traffic on the Cox highway will be avoided between East Palestine and Columbiana by following the new route. The Rogers-Negley project is 4.7 miles in length.

CIVIC SOCIETY MEETS TUESDAY

Meeting of Precinct Club Last Night Postponed.

Though a number of East End residents were in attendance at the time designated for the opening of the meeting it was decided to postpone until next Tuesday evening, September 3, the regular meeting for its holding by members of the Precinct B, Community league, scheduled for the Virginia avenue fire station last evening. At its last session three weeks ago adjournment was made to Tuesday evening, August 20. Through a misunderstanding and the fact that several of the persons allied with it were away on their annual vacations, the announcement was made that postponement would be made until last evening.

When it was discovered that Secretary Marion McArter was unable to be present on account of illness last evening and that others of the membership were still out of the city, President Zed T. Smith declared the body would await until next Tuesday for the planned assemblage which would return the gathering to its former schedule. He, at the same time, gave out the fact that matters of importance would be considered at the meeting next week and that several outstanding committees would make reports of investigations made by them during the adjournment.

YOU WANT MORE THAN TRANSPORTATION

If transportation in a limited sense were all that an automobile could provide, any car would do, and the cheapest would be the best. The difference between the minimum in transportation and the maximum in motoring is exactly what sets the Chrysler-built De Soto Six completely apart from others in its field. It explains why De Soto Six has broken all sales records for a first-year car. The De Soto Six was not designed merely to carry people in passable comfort from one place to another. The qualities that afford De Soto true distinction are all supplementary to its mobility. De Soto Six is capable of such distinctive and versatile performance that nothing less than a demonstration can do it justice. We shall be glad to arrange this demonstration to suit your convenience.

EVANGELIST PREACHES ON MILLENNIUM

Rev W. S. Heslop Continues Revivals at Nazarene Church.

ANSWERS QUERIES

Minister Explains Reasons for Methuselah's Long Life.

"The long life of Methuselah, stretching out despite its brittle thread to almost a thousand years, proves the long-suffering and mercy of God who is not willing any human being shall perish but that all mankind shall come to repentance," asserted the Rev. William S. Heslop, D. D., Oliver, Ill., theological professor and former missionary, at the First Nazarene church last evening. He will speak again this evening following his agreement to remain a second week in East Liverpool for a continuation of a series of pulpit addresses began ten days ago.

Announcement was made that the Rev. Dr. Heslop would answer written questions placed in his hands previously at the service on next Friday evening.

He said that Methuselah means "when he is dead it shall be sent." Thus, he contended, that the long-living patriarch's father, Enoch, who was 65 years of age when his son was born, knew hundreds of years before the birth of Noah that the flood would come over the earth when Methuselah would have passed from it.

"God lengthened out the life of Methuselah since he was not willing that any should perish," he said, "for when Methuselah died the flood was to come."

He declared that Lamech, another of the immediate descendants of Adam in that far-away period of the earth's existence, means "conqueror." Therefore, he affirmed, "The flood was a foreshadowing of the great tribulation and after the great tribulation Christ, the conqueror, will descend to the earth and set up His millennial kingdom."

"God is lengthening out this dispensation of grace not willing any should perish but very soon Christ, our Lamech, our conqueror, will come back to the earth again."

"Noah, meaning 'rest,' is the last of the ten names mentioned in Genesis. With the end of the great tribulation and the return of Christ in the millennium the lion and the lamb shall lie down together, the leopard shall lie down with the kid and the wolf with the calf."

"Earth shall subsequently enjoy one thousand years of peace at this beneficent period and righteousness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea."

DON LANNING COMING HERE

A great bill marked by the personal appearance of East Liverpool's stage celebrity, Don Lanning, and the presentation of one of the most intriguing dramas ever filmed, finds its way to the Ceramic theater during the last three days of the week.

Lanning comes here direct from the completion of a two-year engagement in the big musical comedy success, "Good News." He had the leading role in this snappy production, playing it on Broadway as well as in leading metropolitan centers in the United States.

The fascinating Don is being made a headliner in vaudeville with this colorful, melodious and sparkling feature this summer in between his musical comedy engagements.

He brings with him a pianist who has all of Don's tantalizing tunes at his very fingertips.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O.—S. C. Robinson has just returned to this city from Utica, Kas. He brought with him an eleven pound tooth said to have been part of the equipment of a mastodon. The tooth was one of several molars dug up by a former neighbor while opening a well, Robinson said.

Yankees Shut Out Athletics

Pipgras in 3-hit Game; But it Doesn't Mean Much.

By Henry McLemore.
NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Paradoxical as it may seem, the New York Yankees caused their faithful followers no little misery as they shut out the Athletics, 2 to 0, in the first of a two-game series that will be concluded here today.

For as the P. F. watched George Pipgras now down the league leaders in steady succession, their thoughts kept turning to what the game might have meant had the Yanks played anything like champions on their recently completed disastrous journey through the west. As things now stand Pipgras' brilliant performance means little and the A's are still an even dozen games in front.

Pipgras, who had not started on the mound since August 14, was boulding for no-hit fame up until the eighth when Simmons registered the first Philadelphia hit. This, plus Miller's single and Phipps' triple were all the hits that the A's had in the game.

Sum Rife's triple in the fourth inning, followed by Byers' single, gave Washington a 5 to 4 victory over Boston in the only other game scheduled for the American. Goose Goslin aided the Senators in winning by rapping his fifteenth home run of the season.

Chicago, seemingly determined to clinch the national pennant as soon as possible, downed the Reds 4 to 1 and now lead the parade by fourteen and one-half games. Sheriff Blake who allowed but six hits and Rogers Hornsby who hit safely four times in the same number of appearances at bat, were the chief reasons for the Cubs' win.

Pittsburgh, apparently as determined to sink as the Cubs are to rise, blew another one to the Phils, this time by 7 to 4. By the victory the Phils moved into sixth place, displacing the Reds. Harry Smythe, starting his first major league game, was on the mound for Philadelphia. The Phils collected all their runs in one big inning, the eighth.

Only two games were scheduled in the National.

PHILLIES SOCK BUCS AGAIN, 7-4

Score All Their Runs In Seventh Frame.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Harry Smythe, starting his first big league game, pitched the Phillies to a 7 to 4 victory over Pittsburgh yesterday.

One big inning, the seventh, when eight hits and a pass were lined loose on Brame, brought all the Phils' runs. The Corsairs held the Phillies to four hits until this uprising.

When Ira Flagstead tripled as a pinch hitter in the ninth and scored on Bartlett's out, it was the first earned run off Smythe in 16 innings.

BUCKEYE CHAMPION DEFEATED

Mrs. Curtis Sohl Bows To Coast Golf Golf Star.

MAYFIELD COUNTRY CLUB, Cleveland, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Leona Pressler, the Los Angeles star, today faced Mrs. Lee Mida of Chicago in the second round of the women's western golf tournament here in an effort to defend her title as champion.

Although not playing in the best of form yesterday, the west coast golfer dominated Mrs. Curtis Sohl of Columbus, the Ohio champion, 2 and 1.

In Mrs. Mida, Mrs. Pressler meets one of her four chief rivals today. True and again Mrs. Mida has sought the western title. She has always advanced for, but has never been able to quite reach the top.

Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City and Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, who ran one-two in the quarter Monday, continued their exceptional play yesterday and advanced to the second round.

Today Mrs. Hill is scheduled to play Eva May Johnson of Chicago, while Miss Van Wie plays Mrs. L. C. Nelson of Dayton, O.

Yesterday's biggest upset was the defeat of Virginia Wilson of Chicago, one of the heavy favorites to win the title. She went down at the hands of Mrs. Gregg Liffur of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Julian Tyler of Cleveland is keeping Ohio in the race following her sensational defeat of Mrs. L. C. Nelson of Dayton. Of eight Ohioans who qualified, the Cleveland city champion is the only one left.

Pairings on today's schedule follow:
Mrs. Leona Pressler, Los Angeles, vs. Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago;
Mrs. Gregg Liffur, Los Angeles, vs. Miss Ariel Vlas, Chicago;
Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, vs. Mrs. L. C. Nelson, Dayton;
Kathleen Wright, Los Angeles, vs. Miss Ann Kennedy, Tulsa;
Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, vs. Miss Rena Johnson, Chicago;
Mrs. Harley Higbie, Detroit, vs. Miss Helen MacMoran of Chicago;
Mrs. Julian Tyler of Cleveland, vs. Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis.;
and Miss Peggy Watter, Buffalo, vs. Mrs. John Arenda, Chicago.

HEARTHS BLANKED IN 7-0 TILT

Brackenridge Limits Leaders to Three Hits.

MIDLAND, Pa., Aug. 28.—With Brackenridge hurling airtight ball the way and his mates clubbing the ball hard behind him, the Phils easily subdued the league leading Hearts, 7 to 0, in a Crucible Steel League tilt here last night.

Brackenridge limited the Furman men to three scattered bingles. The Finishers banged out 12 bingles, among them a four-ply clout by Concrete in the first frame with two men on.

Dixies Nearing Pennant

Tighten Grip on Top By Beating Stars.

The Dixieville club just about sewed up the second half pennant in the Community league last night when they triumphed over the Golden Stars, 10 to 6, at Dixonville.

Jones and Beech of the Stars duelled on the mound with Rose of the Dixies and each club collected eight bingles.

The Dixies, however, had a big spurge of eight runs in the first frame and that was enough to win. Chamberlain and Bennett led the Dixie clubbers with two apiece. Beech collected a pair for the losers.

Softball Campaign Near End

Miners, Newell Service Have Edge at Present.

The Recreation league race for the second half pennant continues to be a toss-up between three or four of the leading teams, any one of which may reach the goal by a strenuous effort. At the present time, Anderson Coal and Newell Service seem to have the edge on the other contenders. Newell took over Smith News Monday night and came up on even terms with Andersons.

The Coal Yard tappers defeated Golden Flowers last night and again assumed the lead. Newell has a chance of tying up the race once more if they can defeat Lane Grocers at West End tonight. This is a play-off of a fourteen inning scoreless tie played between these clubs last week.

The defeat of Carnahan Drugs by the Y. M. C. A. and that of Smith News by Johannes Drugs, has about ruined the pennant chances of the Newsies and the East End Drugists.

Another contender which may yet stir up some dust is the Johannes Drugs. The Northside boys have been going strong lately and are not out of the running as yet.

Defeats Carnahans.
The Y. M. C. A. put a dent in Carnahan Drugs' pennant aspirations by defeating the Pill Rollers 8 to 4, at West End last night. The Drugs scored all their runs in the opening frame, and were unable to reach the platter after that. The "Y" trailed until the fifth when they scored three runs.

Peter, Golden and Diamond, with three hits apiece, led the clubbers, while D. Moore, Hancock and Besset each collected a pair of bingles. The rival left fielders, Golden and Diamond, starred with sparkling catches.

DOUBLE A RACE DOWN TO GRIND

Looks Like Kansas City Has Flag Well Sewed up.

Periodically the American association pennant race settles down to a monotonous grind. It is so today.

"BIG GAME"

Story of a girl who thought love more powerful than society.

By Vida Hurst

But supposing Dan misunderstood her summons and tried to take advantage of it? He had been brutally plain the last time they were together. Yet of her own accord she had telephoned him at 10 o'clock, a few nights later. Incriminating that? No matter! Her need for immediate companionship was more urgent than conventional. It was typical of the girl that the idea of calling Ruth had not occurred to her.

She was grateful for Dan's casual greeting.
"If you knew how I love the unexpected!" he said, following her into the living room. . . Already the brooding, ugly, ghost had retreated into distant corners. They would jump at her again but she was safe for the moment. . . And realizing this, it seemed easy to smile and answer: "I was lonely. No place to go and nothing to do."

"Do you know when you called I had the idea that something had happened?"
"Happened to me? How silly!" "Worried for fear you wouldn't accept my invitation," she retorted.

"Wasn't it?" agreed Dan, lighting a cigarette. "I imagined you were all up in the air."
It seemed reassuring to swing into her customary line. It made her feel as if everything were normal. Although she did add, "I wanted to see you because I'm going away."

"Going where?" he demanded.
"Oh, New York."
"For how long, Mona?"
"I don't know. Several weeks anyway. Perhaps all winter."

Dan frowned delightedly.
"Why the haste?"
"Because I'm bored with Minneapolis. Absolutely FED UP!"

Dan came over to her chair, sitting heavily upon its padded arm.
"Take me along. I'm fed up, too. Gosh, but I'd like to be in New York City with you."

"Would you, Dan? Why?"
"Think of them things we could do. The freedom we'd have. Mona swung one foot idly.

"It isn't exactly freedom I've been lacking here."
"But that would be different. Sweet thing, the fun I could have piloting you around. . ."

"Piloting me nothing! I've been there before. Besides I have a cousin. . ."
"You would have," he groaned.
"Well, I'll be broadminded. He needn't stand in my way."

"What I'm trying to tell you is that he has some awfully nice friends."

"Right, you've succeeded in getting your idea across to me. My ranking as a first class entertainer would not be so high in New York as it is in Minneapolis."

"I didn't say that. If you want to come while I'm there of course I'll be glad to see you."

"Will you, Mona? Is that a promise?"
The reason for her going was sweeping over her with renewed bitterness, yet she chatted and smiled. If Bruce could have seen her he would have been convinced of her shallowness. But it was the only method Mona knew for staving off the inevitable. And whether it was despicable or courageous she didn't know. Nor did she care. . .

In spite of a practically sleepless night Mona was dressed and downstairs at 8 o'clock.
Joshua Darien, arriving on an early train, breakfasted at home that morning. Greeting his daughter, after his absence, with a manner which forced her to realize she was still in disgrace.

Mona had not thought of Rosalie for several days. Now she recalled, with a twinge of conscience, that she had not yet discovered Rosalie's address. . . And although her father's cold eyes were colder than usual, Mona's own mental state was so perturbed that it made her almost indifferent.

Apathetically she replied to his grilling cross-examination as to why she had disobeyed him and permitted Rosalie Watson for the second time to darken his door.

"I'm sorry for her, father. Somebody has to keep your promise."
"What promise are you referring to?"

"The one you made when you discharged her. To help her secure another position."

She thought his heavy face reddened ridiculously.
"I made no promises of any kind," he stated. "But if I had they would in no way obligate or concern you. Also, remember that I expect you to observe my wishes in this matter."

"I'm sorry," she said, again.
"Joshua Darien pounded on the table until the silverware jumped and water spilled from the bowl of flowers."

"I forbid you to discuss it," he thundered. "I forbid you to mention her name in any way to me again. Do I make myself perfectly clear?"

"Yes, father!"
How could she broach the subject of a trip to New York after that? He would refuse before she had even finished her request.

But as she stared at him with baffled, desperate eyes he added, "I think it will be best for you to go away until this thing blows over. I have made arrangements for you to spend the winter in New York."

Mona stifled her exclamation of surprise. If he knew how badly she wanted to go he might not be so anxious to send her.

"Your Aunt Sophia is to meet you in Chicago," he continued.
"She is grateful for an opportunity to be near her son, and I have given her instructions to take an apartment so that the three of you may be together."

"Not half bad," approved Mona silently, letting no flicker of elation rise to her sullen eyes.
"I shall get your ticket today. I have already made your reservations."

"Yes, father!"
"If you have any shopping to do you'd better do it. I shall expect you to be ready to leave tonight."

He finished his breakfast in silence. Leaving with his customary haste. Confident that he had not only solved the question of Rosalie Watson, but had also nipped any lingering fondness Mona might be cherishing for Dan McIntyre.

A winter in New York, under the eagle eye of his older sister, would do her good and be an ineffable relief to him. Not since the first days of his bereavement had the responsibility of his daughter been so upsetting. Her blue eyes were disturbingly like her mother's.

But the tenacity of purpose she revealed in her insistence, even against his command, of helping Rosalie Watson was his own. And recognizing it as such distressed him greatly.

Besides this Watson girl was proving herself such an unmitigated fool that there was no telling what might happen. He deeply deplored the lack of foresight which had permitted him to "get into a mess" like this.

Never again would he become involved with anyone in his own employ. A girl from across the hall, perhaps, or even next door. . . "Women," brooded Joshua Darien, gloomily, "are an infernal nuisance."

Meanwhile Mona was recovering from the shock of being granted the request she had been afraid to voice.

What luck! What perfectly amazing luck! Not that she craved the companionship of poor Aunt Sophia.

Aunt Sophia's views were too archaic to please her very modern niece.

Mona could imagine how eagerly she had accepted her brother's offer of a winter "looking after" his son.

But wondered how Roland would react to the suggestion. He was 30 now.

ALMOST old enough to look after himself! But to his mother Rosalie would always be the angelic child in curls and black velvet, which the old photograph album portrayed. Mona smiled anticipating their welcome in New York. Yet even if Rosalie were not exactly delighted to see them he would not doubt appreciate the reduction of living expenses.

And Mona fancied the two of them might be able to make even the eternal vigilance of Aunt Sophia. . . At any rate it was better than remaining in Minneapolis.

Anything, she thought bitterly, would be better than that.

She made a list of things she needed but before she left the house she closed herself into her own room and called her father's office. Asking, in a low, important sounding, voice, for the address of Rosalie Watson.

The girl at the other end of the wire replied that Miss Watson had only worked in the office a short time and she did not know where she could be found. Mona frowned. Confident that Rosalie would return, and dreading not so much her threats as the suffering she must endure. Waiting. Hoping for some word. . .

"I'll write her a letter," she decided. "Maybe she'll get it if I send it 'General Delivery.'"

She was afraid to put her address on the outside of the envelope, not wishing to have it returned during her absence. So she put it on the inside, and briefly asked Rosalie to go to Newton's and see Mr. Berlon in regard to a position he had promised.

Months later, when this letter was returned from the dead letter office, Mona was to re-read it, wondering if the receiving of it would alter all have made any difference. . .

The hours passed in a rush of activities. Little time that day to think of Bruce, although the reason for her leaving colored every word she uttered. Was back of every thought.

She telephoned the girls informing them of her father's decision.
"But why so soon?" queried Mabel.

"That's the way he does things," Mona replied, truthfully. "He had everything all arranged before he came home. And, of course, it suits Aunt Sophia better to leave immediately."

"I probably wouldn't see much of you, anyway," she added. "Jim says I simply have to take better care of myself. Regular exercise, and sleep. . . You can imagine about how long I'll be able to stand it."

The conversation with Ruth was equally depressing.

"We'll miss you, Mona. But of course it will be wonderful for you to be in New York. I suppose you've heard the news. Wouldn't it be thrilling to have a baby for a man like Bruce? He'll be so SWEET to her. . ."

She thought Mona was unusually abrupt in her reply. She did not know the other girl was talking with tears streaming down her cheeks. Silly, silly, Mona!

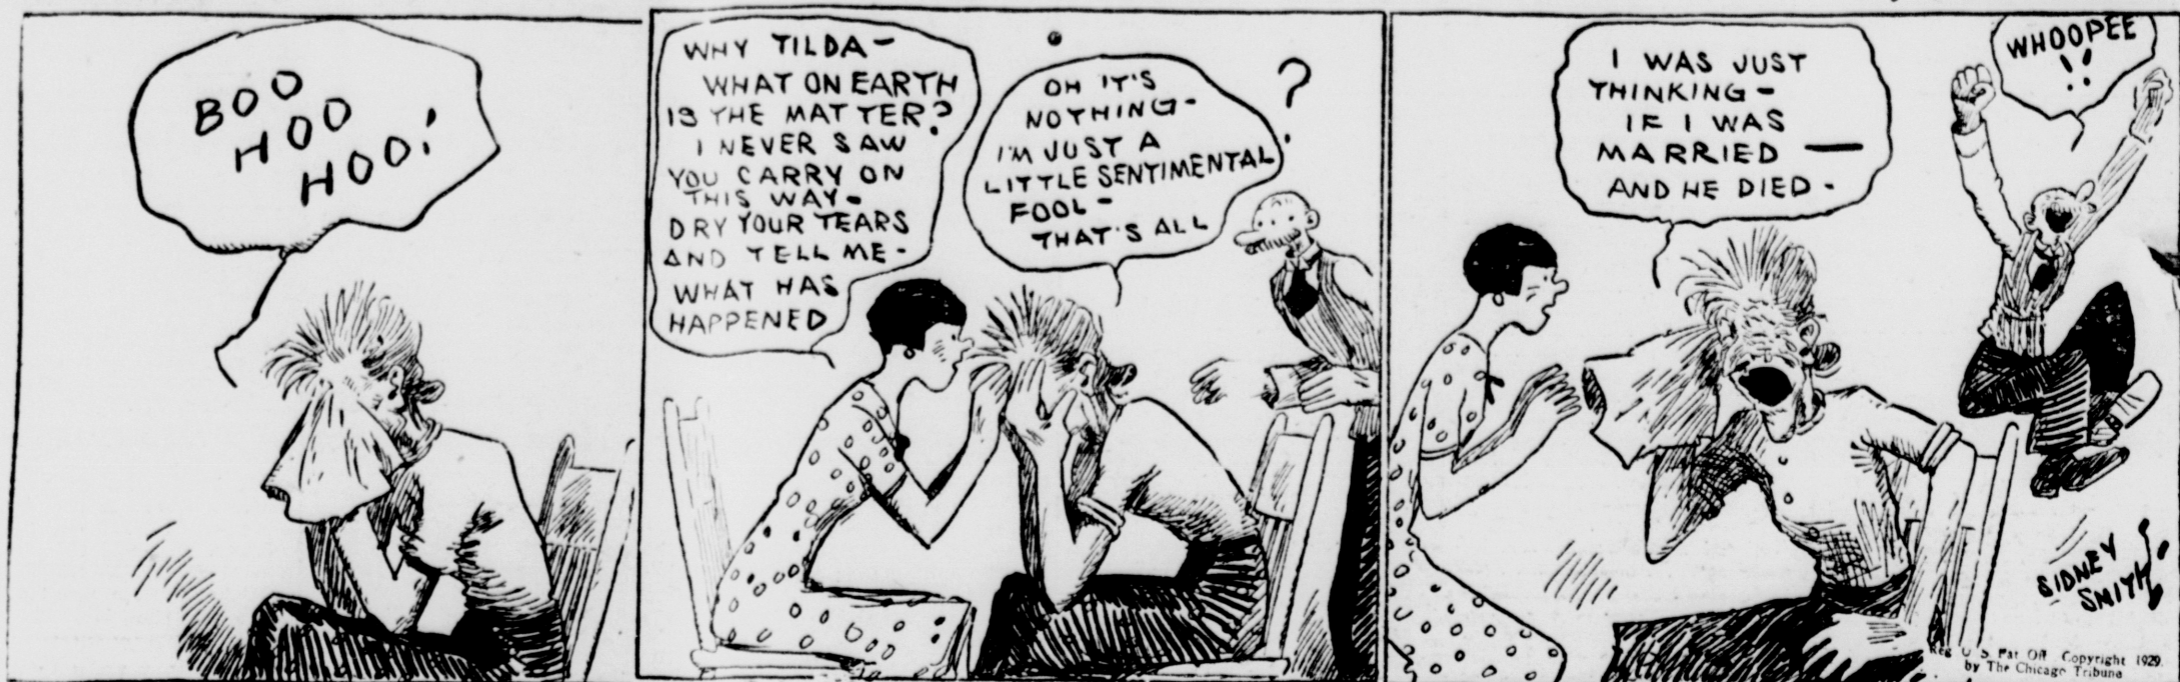

A month later, returning from her dutiful eight blocks up Riverside drive and back with Aunt Sophia, Mona found letters from every one in the "crowd" but Jim.

At sight of the flat envelope from "Newton's" a wave of excitement swept her. Why should Bruce write to her now? How had he obtained her address unless from Mabel?

She escaped to her room, scattering the other letters about her on the bed. THEY could wait. Opening this with shivers of apprehension. . . Inexplicably disappointed when she saw the typewritten contents, which could be read at a glance.
